WHAT CAN I DO?

I am only one,
 But I am one;
 I can do everything,
 But I can do something;
 And what I can do
 And what I should do
 By the grace of God I will do.

U. S. Civil Service Commissioner Harry B. Mitchell, speaking at Denver, Colorado.

Just because we are going to college is no reason why we should sit back and relax. We are fighting this war just as much as the boys in camp; for we too are preparing. But because we are not actively engaged in it, we oftentimes forget that there is a war; that there is strife in the world, and above all that we have a duty to fulfill in connection with this war.

There is in America a spirit unlike any other in the world. We are all for upholding and maintaining the principles for which our country stands.

Our congressmen debate loud and long on important issues. Politicians rake each other over the coals; they have many political rallies and speeches. Every man gives his opinion. This is America.

A huge crowd packs into the Madison Square garden around the boxing ring, and they cheer wildly as Joe Louis mauls over another victim. That is America. Baseball fans gather for five days to see the Yankees get beat by the Cardinals. That is America.

In thousands of theaters throughout the country we citizens are seeing educational, inspirational and entertaining movies. That's America.

On the farm there is a constant humming of the machines, planting, cultivating, harvesting, and selling the crops to feed all our people. That's America.

Our factories are working; smoke pours forth to get the work done on time. That's America.

But this isn't all of America. One group of Americans is doing more than just live for America. Down in the Solomon Islands are gallant fighting Americans, on the burning hot sands of Egypt, in the blood-soaked Caucasus and on the rugged, mountainous, in China. They are the boys who are standing ready to fight and die to uphold the principles of the "land of the free and the home of the brave." That's America, too.

These men are making sacrifices—supreme sacrifices; and the people of our nation are making sacrifices. We are at Wartburg are making sacrifices and will continue to do so.

On Thursday of this week, an appeal was made for volunteers to contribute to the Red Cross blood bank here. Before the day was over one-third of the student body had volunteered.

Dr. M. Wiederanders, who has been in charge of Civilian Control training in Bremer county and other members of the faculty who assisted him, have given liberally of their time and energy because they knew there was a job to be done.

Wartburg will cooperate. There are still some things that we can do—some things that we haven't thought much about perhaps, but they are important too. Let's show that we are worthy of the opportunities here so that we may carry out our country to our greatest ability when we are called on to serve.

What are college students doing about the War Savings Stamps appeal? Did it ever occur to us to invest 10 per cent of our check from home, or of the odd-job money, in savings stamps? It isn't that we need the money to go to school as many like to say to excuse themselves. It just every Wartburg student would get aside just a few weeks. America would be about 3800 near victory by the end of the school year. Let's think about it.

Serv. Fahnenstiel, in his convocation talk, urged us to think of the spiritual warfare of the boys in the service. Are we remembering them in our prayers?

There are a lot of things we can still do—and we will. Wartburg will cooperate in every way possible for the successful prosecution of the war.

Used Stamps Will Aid Missions

Wartburg is to be headquarters for a new project: the gathering of used postage stamps for the mission cause. The stamps are to be sent to the Mission Stamps here. All stamps can be used, even the most common ones. They are to be clipped from the envelopes with enough margin left so that they are not damaged and then to be sent to the Mission Stamps here.

Patton park, located on the Muskegon college campus, covers less than 1,500 of an acre. It is the home of one tree, stones and approximately 200,000 blades of grass.

ON THE PROGRAM

This trio of Russians will be part of the program which the Gen. Plator Don Cosack chorus will present the first number on this year's Wartburg Artist Series on Oct. 23.

QUIPS & QUIRKS from the editor's desk

Hi, everybody! Here are just a few of the many things that I notice and feel as I go through the routine and otherwise life at Wartburg. Maybe you feel the same way—I don't, you'll tell me that.

Harold Broecker, Erwin Frit, and Paul Keller will probably agree as sentiments on this one: It is mighty disconcerting when I am peacefully walking across the campus to be accosted by a freshman who asks me, "Aren't you afraid of Kanagaroo Kot for walking on the 10th road?" Is it just the penalty we have to pay for having a little (c) brother who is a freshman?

Some of those freshman initiation rules were about as hard on the upper-classmen as they were on the freshmen class members all the other classes put together. The climax came at the end of the upper-classman dating rule. Each freshman boy is supposed to date the fish out of the fish-bowl last week—and there are three times as many freshmen boys as upper-classman girls. And then one boy, we hear, got himself too drunk.

I wondered why Charley took the fish out of the fish-bowl last week—and then I found out. Just a case of too much competition.

It is as if that John sheep and Alfred Senn are charter members of a very exclusive or, exclusion, you know.

There are a couple of Clubs that would like to use me as a member of the Gossman Hall. "No chasing" club. It used to be a club of the vocabulary pretty unpleasant.

Another club I'd like to see is the "No so steady" club which has been around since the war is more independent and restless fellows and girls who desire to "be different" and enjoy life awhile yet.

Did you notice that Tex Fick's beautiful cowboy boots? . . . The pretty prettiness of the fresh girls have?

You've got to give the cheerleaders credit for a clever skit at the pep meeting just before the Penn game. It looks like they really enjoyed it.

Oh, incidentally, freshmen, did you see of flowers would you like after the sports act done with you tonight at Kanagaroo Kot?

N. KOSTRUKOFF HAS LED CHOIR FOR 16 YEARS

Helped Found Chorus While in Exile.

Nicholas Kostrukoff, conductor of the General Plator Don Cosack chorus, was studying in the United States when he came a mining engineer when the first World War intervened. In the second year of the war he was 17 and old enough to serve in a Cosack regiment where he gained promotion to the rank of officer. He served with his regiment until the Revolution. His family was driven from their home on the Don River and he became an exile finding refuge first in Bulgaria, and finally in Prague. There he resumed his engineering studies.

It was while he was studying in 1922, that his future vocation began to make itself evident. He had found many fellow landmen in the Czech capital and he began to join them in their parties and devotions. They sang the old songs of their homeland, and they were full of enthusiasm, the full rich music of their church music, and the folk tunes of the Don country. It was not long before Kostrukoff, with his strong personality, found himself conducting a choir of his fellow students. His enthusiasm and his devotion to the cause of loyal cooperation of his associates, especially brought untold of success.

Modestly and unassuming, occasional public performances were arranged, and at one of them, fate, in the shape of a visiting impresario, set the seal on their destinies. They started out by giving a series of professional concerts for other students in the nearby towns. Their success on home territory led them into other fields where they were given a more serious and more extensive response. Concert engagements came pouring in. It soon became necessary for the singing students to consider seriously what they were doing as their future careers—their profession.

THE HIGH COMMAND

Coach Van Dyke, Captain Fred Scherle and Assistant Coach Rosell are here planning the master strategy that Wartburg Knights' two victories in as many starts. They are consulting on how they can make it three in a row at Buena Vista next Saturday.

WARTBURG WINS ON TECH FUMBLE

Mueller Grabs Fumbled Ball and Runs 21 Yards to Win for Knights.

A hard tackle and an alert line-man gathering in a slippery, fumbled ball proved to be the margin of victory for the Wartburg Knights over Wisconsin Tech Saturday in a game played at Platteville, Wis. In the mud and rain, Gambell, Wisconsin fullback, couldn't hold on to the ball when Stuenkel and Langlois tackled him, and Wartburg's right guard, Fred Mueller, coming in to help along, grabbed the water-soaked puke and scampered the remaining 21 yards to the only touchdown of the game. The play came after six plays of the second quarter. Wartburg failed to register the extra point when D. Allen was unsuccessful in trying to plunge over through the line.

Van Dyke's charges had the Miners back on their heels most of the afternoon. Wartburg gained an even 100 yards by rushing, while the Platteville boys gained 88.

Wartburg had one more first down than the Wisconsin eleven, 9-4. With a muddy field, neither team could get rolling effectively, and both were content to play defensive games. Neither team got inside the others' 15 yard line, except when Mueller went for the touchdown. However, most of the play was in Wisconsin Tech territory.

Fred Mueller, Dale Wolff and Bob Langlois were the outstanding Knight linemen. Mueller and Langlois are lettermen from last year, while Wolff is a freshman from Stockton, Ill. He plays guard and proved his worth in his initial appearance as a Knight.

In the backfield it was "Butt" Obenauer and another freshman, Dillman Allen from Hampton, who performed brilliantly; Allen with his running and kicking, and "Butt" as the hard-driving line plunger of past years.

Gambell was the big gun for Wisconsin Tech, performing creditably on offense and defense.

Behind the Varsity

JIM HUGHES

Those Wartburg Knights have decided to resort to modern war tactics in action, and it is surely showing results, mildly speaking. Coach Van Dyke has instructed the boys to keep both feet on the ground instead of the usual Knight system of being "up in the air" in former battles. So far the Knights have won two ball games, beating Wisconsin Tech 6-0 and trouncing Penn on Thursday 19-0. A determined, gallant bunch of Knights have decided to play each game as it comes, and to play it well. You'll see no loafing on the Wartburg squad this year. Why? Because Wartburg has enough reserve strength to take care of any such men who are inclined to do so. I think that was plainly shown last Thursday night when Van substituted so freely in the last game of the Penn game. With reserves in almost every position, Penn was still unable to get any places in fact they even lost ground on their last four plays from scrimmage.

Highlights

Perhaps the biggest thrill of the game was watching those Wartburg lads turn on the power in the fourth quarter, and march 83 yards to their final touchdown of the game. Sheer power! They didn't take to the air. They went right through the Penn line. If a hole wasn't made by the Knight linemen, those ball carriers for Coach Van's eleven made them, with a result that it took 13 plays and 83 yards to score. Penn was still unable to get any places in fact they even lost ground on their last four plays from scrimmage.

John Keller, freshman from Jamestown, N. D., made the run of the evening for the home team, only to have it called back. Running at full speed, he intercepted a pass on the Wartburg 30 yard marker, and rammed down the side-lines for what looked like another score, only to trip and fall on the Penn 20 yard line.

Elgin Allen's tackle that kept the Knight goal line uncrossed was another exciting moment. Lafayette threw a short pass to Smith who broke away and when it appeared he was about to score, Elgin came in and knocked him out of bounds on the eight yard line. Then the Knights' great goal line stand! It was beautiful to see those Wartburg boys dig in and actually know in their hearts that Penn couldn't score. And they didn't. Penn tried two plays that netted them about 7 yards to the Knights 1 yard line. Then a pass, followed by another smash at Wartburg's stone wall around the center of the line, and they reluctantly gave the ball over to the Wartburg eleven.

Features of the Game.

Did you know that the Quakers were careless when they came to take on our Knights? Their coach was in the hospital suffering from an appendectomy and was unable to make the trip. In his stead, a student manager was put in charge. No, I'm not thinking that Penn could have beat us Thursday night with a coach. It was our team's ball game all the way, and they knew it.

How did you like to see our two "pony" backs in action in the last few minutes of the game? "Skip" Sailer and "Butch" Heist they are. Skip snatched through center on one play for nine yards, and almost a first down, but on the next play he had to yield to three husky Penn linemen and as a result he lost five of those yards. "Butch" didn't get his hands on the ball, but he didn't make any mistakes in there either. Maybe we'll be hearing more of these two boys as the season goes along. Let's hope so.

And did you see that quick kick by "Baldy" Allen in the opening minutes of the game? It set the Quakers right back on their heels, and I think that was the one play that set up our first touchdown. It was a beautiful piece of field generalship. D. Allen was calling the plays for the Van Dyke grid-irons.

Who Is Next?

Next week the Knights will invade the stronghold of the Buena Vista Beavers. Penn is known about their strength, but they played the perennially strong Western Union eleven to a standstill just a few Saturdays ago. The game ended in a 0-0 deadlock. After the Beavers, the Knights return home for their game with the Eastons from Western Union. This is the homecoming game of the Diamond Jubilee year, and promises to be a good one. Western Union appears to have its annual array of speedy, shifty backs and should provide many thrills for the local fans.

Well, folks, that's all for this time. Be seeing you two weeks from today when we again go "Behind the Varsity".

Allen Scores All Points in Knights' 2d Victory

That said saying "The pen is mightier than the sword" was quickly put away last Thursday night when the Wartburg Knights slashed to a 19-0 victory over the Penn Quakers from Oskaloosa, Iowa. Van Dykenmen, figuring that first and last impressions are always the greatest, counted touchdowns in the first period and in the last quarter in winning their initial conference victory of the 1942 season.

Dillman "Baldy" Allen scored all of Wartburg's points. He crossed the goal line three times and placed one point after touchdown. The other two attempts were wide of the goal post. Allen and "Butt" Obenauer again gave that spark on the offensive that sent Wartburg to its second win in as many starts thus far this season.

First Quarter

Penn kicked off to Wartburg and Bob Sautter picked up the puke on the 20 yard line and ran 17 yards to Wartburg's 36. D. Allen carried for 5 yards, but an inside penalty brought the ball back to the original line of scrimmage.

D. Allen then quick-kicked to the Penn 12 yard marker, and after one play from scrimmage, which left the Quakers 4 yards, Bonn punned to Obenauer the 40 and he returned it to the Penn 23. With Obenauer and Allen carrying the ball, the Knights made a series of touchdowns. Allen going around his own left end untouched. His try for the first time was successful and the good and Wartburg went to the lead. Score: Wartburg 7, Penn 0.

The Quakers again kicked off, and when the Quakers failed to kick, they were required to give away again punned to the Wartburg 40. A long pass, D. Allen to Allen, which netted 22 yards, started the Knights on their second touchdown journey, and "Baldy" Allen scored on a 17 yard run around his own left end. The Quakers' defense failed. Score: Wartburg 13, Penn 0.

Wartburg kicked off, and after Penn ran one play, the quarter ended.

Second Quarter

The second quarter produced no scoring, and settled into a defensive battle. Penn failed to bring the ball into Knight territory only once, when they just got over the midfield stripe midway in the quarter. Wartburg went to the Penn twenty on a series of line plays, but there the Penn line held. As the whistle sounded ending the first half, the ball rested again on the 50 yard line in Wartburg's possession. Score: Wartburg 13, Penn 0.

Third Quarter

As the second half got under way, it looked like the Quakers were all steamed up as they took the ball on their own 30 on the side-of-the-play proceeded to drive which took them into Knight territory. However, the Knight line got warmed up to their task, and held, forcing Bonn pun to Obenauer on the 20 who returned it to the Knight 34. The battle then raged around the midfield stripe until late in the quarter, Penn got the ball on their own 35. A short pass from Lafayette to Smith was completed and Smith carried the ball to the Wartburg 5 yard line. A line play and a short pass brought the ball to within the Knight one yard marker, but there the Van Dykenmen put a brilliant goal-line stand and took over the ball on downs. Allen promptly punted out of danger, and after a few plays the quarter ended. The score still stood at 13-0 in favor of the Knights.

Fourth Quarter

The highlight of the last quarter was the 83-yard touchdown drive the Knights started midway in the last period. Starting from their own 37 yard line, the Knight line opened up a hole in the Quaker forward wall to let "Butt" Obenauer and "Baldy" Allen gallop through for substantial gain. Except for one play, an unrecalled forward pass, the Knight "Butcher" toward the 40 and continued uninterrupted. Allen scored his first and this time to score standing up. The Quakers required two plays to get the ball back. Score: Wartburg 19, Penn 0.

After that, it was a matter of minutes until the game was over. As the whistle sounded ending the game Wartburg was in possession of the ball on their own 35 yard line. Substitutions from the Wartburg bench came in a steady stream until every squad member had seen some action. Little Lawrence "Skip" Sailer, on the second to the last play of the game.
